Georgian mediaeval epic poem written in the time of the Golden Age of Queen Tamar. Couched in the chivalric language of the 12th Century, it tells a classic tale of love in all its forms, and is an allegory of the great Queen herself. The book is required reading for all school students in Georgia and a copy went with each bride to her new home as a part of her dowry. This prose rendering was the first in English.

- Summary by Beeswaxcandle

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

Cover picture: "Shota Rustaveli presents his poem to Queen Tamar" by Mihály Zichy (1827-1906).
Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU. and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws.
Cover design by Sandra Schmit. This design is in the public domain.